

Abstract of the Disclosure

A dispenser includes an opening through which coating material is dispensed, a coupling for coupling the opening to a source of coating material to be dispensed, and a shroud for enclosing at least a portion of the dispenser. The shroud 5 includes two portions which engage each other at first and second joints which extend generally longitudinally of the shroud.